

Research Summary

Due to generous supports of the Sumitomo Foundation, I could conduct my field research in Japan and complete several academic works, including my Ph.D. dissertation.

During my stay in Tokyo in the first half of 2007, particularly, I benefited from the Sumitomo's financial supports for my research on Japan's labor market system and the current inequality issue. After my field research, I could accomplish my dissertation project, which compares the diverging patterns of labor market reform between Japan, South Korea and Taiwan. I really appreciate the supports of the Sumitomo Foundation for the young scholars like me.

Publication of the Results of Research Project:

Verbal Presentation (Date, Venue, Name of Conference, Title of Presentation, Presenter, etc.)

Thesis (Name of Journal and its Date, Title and Author of Thesis, etc.)

Ph.D. Dissertation: Reforming the Dualities: The Politics of Labor Market Reform in Contemporary East Asia. Political Science, University of California, Berkeley (December 17, 2008)

Journal publication: Regulatory Contradictions: The Political Determinants of Labor Market Inequality in Korea and Japan (p 1-25), Governance, Volume 22 Issue 1 (January 2009)

*see at <http://www3.interscience.wiley.com/journal/118497136/home?CRETRY=1&SRETRY=0>

Book (Publisher and Date of the Book, Title and Author of the Book, etc.)